Washington, D.C.
U.S.A.

Dear General Bedell Smith,

I hope you will still remember me, I came to see you in January 1951 with an introduction from General Sir Noel Mason-MacFarlane and with compliments from General Sir Frederick Morgan. You were good enough to spare a little time to see me.

STAT

I would like to introduce to you an American friend of mine, [redacted]

[redacted] who is most anxious to work for C.I.A. She was with her husband (he representing the United Press) for two years in [redacted] and after she separated from him, has worked at [redacted]

[redacted] She is a very clever and quick witted girl. Of course I have no idea in what way she could be of service to C.I.A., but I would be grateful if you ^{could} give her a chance.

I hope to spend Easter with General MacFarlane, and have a good gossip with him about world affairs.

*Yours Sincerely,
Indira Listowel*

I am delivering this in person. I am staying at the Statton Room W 848 and am seeing
Mr. Dulles today at 12:00.
